Planners are people who value communities and expect to make a difference. They often chose to work in jobs that are rewarding but which may not pay very well. The profession depends on new graduates to continue the work of innovation and excitement that characterizes planning in California. We need your help to ensure that young people who are drawn to planning will be able to fund their education.

The California Planning Foundation (CPF) is a nonprofit, charitable corporation established to further the professional practice of planning in California. CPF achieves this goal by giving annual scholarships and awards to university students in financial need, who have demonstrated academic excellence at planning programs throughout California. Another vitally important CPF activity is the sponsorship of workshops, publications and other continuing educational and professional development programs. All members of APA California are automatically members of CPF. Although APA California members pay annual dues to belong to APA California and the National American Planning Association, there are no separate dues to belong to CPF.
